General Contract Bond Guarantee

Export growth constrained by bonding requirements?
Lack of security hampering growth?

The New Zealand Export Credit Office (NZECO) General Contract Bond Guarantee is a guarantee to an exporter’s bank which enables the bank to issue a bond in situations where the exporter has a security shortfall. This allows exporters to take up additional or larger contracts with overseas buyers who require a contract bond as financial assurance for honouring its contractual obligations.

Key Benefits for Exporters

- Opportunity for exporters to secure additional or larger contracts with overseas buyers
- Extension of an exporter’s bank bonding lines without requiring additional security
- Can free up working capital.

NZECO can also offer unfair calling of the bond insurance direct to the exporter.

Types of bonds covered

- Bid Bond*
- Advanced Payment Bond/Performance Bond
- Warranty, Maintenance, and/or Retention Bonds*

 These bonds are conditional on there also being an advance payment and/ or performance bond requirement linked to the same contract – refer www.nzeco.govt.nz for further information*

Key product Features

- Eligibility
 - Applies to the situation where the exporter’s bank is unable to issue the bond due to a lack of sufficient security.
 - Exporters must be able to show NZECO that it has the managerial, technical and financial capabilities to perform the export contract that the bonds are tied to.
 - The exported goods/ services must have at least 30% value-add in NZ.
